The ART of Aging White-tailed Deer on the Hoof

(not an exact science)

How Old Are These Bucks ???

There are some basics to understand, but body condition, time of year, high protein supplements, and geographic location will effect aging on the hoof.

“NUBBIN” BUCK FAWN

This is NOT a SPIKE BUCK

NO HARDENED ANTLERS PROTRUDING THRU THE SKIN

This is a yearling buck (1.5 yrs.)
with no visible hardened antlers – note that the pedicle is flat and not rounded as on the “nubbin” buck fawn below.

Normally 1.5 years old

Not all yearlings are spikes, but most spikes are yearlings.

YEARLING BUCK

(1.5 years old)

Slender neck that meets body at mid-
chest

Ears normally appear large

Head is slender from front and side and tight skinned

Antler spread normally WITHIN ear tips

Yearling Buck

Slender Head

Slender Neck

Slender Body

(slight on mass and muscle)

Legs appear long

1.5 yr. old

2.5 yr. old

See how neck meets chest / brisket

Legs appear long on 1.5 yr. old bucks. As a buck gets older the legs appear to become shorter as compared to body depths.

??????

This buck could either be a good yearling OR a low-end 2.5 year old

AND/OR

Good quality 1.5
year olds often look like the average 2.5
year old

Be Careful !

2.5 – 3.5 year old

Neck appears full
but not swollen
and meets body
just above brisket swirl.

Chest and hindquarters
appear to have same depths

Top of back usually straight

3.5 year old buck—full neck, skin tight under jaw, chest and hindquarters appear to have same depths, belly not obvious.

Mature (4-5 yrs.)

Immature (3 yrs.)

Look at head, swelling of neck, chest, hindquarters, skin under jaw, length of legs – BUT remember deer are like people – NO TWO ARE EXACTLY ALIKE

Mature Buck

(4.5 years or older)

Note muscle definitions on neck, shoulders, and hindquarters

Chest is deeper than hindquarters

Forehead and eyes may appear broader than on immature bucks

MATURE BUCK

(4.5 years and older)

Chest appears deeper than hindquarters

Neck swollen and blends into brisket

Loose skin under jaw on many mature bucks

Photo taken at end of rut

Note absence of belly

Mature Buck

Swollen neck

Muscular chest

Loose skin
under jaw

This is what a healthy buck
4.5 to 6.5
years old
should look like in the prime of life
on good habitat*

Mature Buck

Notice loose skin under jaw
line

Broad, full chest and brisket

A photograph of two white-tailed deer in a field of tall, dry grass. The deer in the foreground is a buck with a large, well-developed set of antlers, looking directly at the camera. The deer in the background is also a buck, with smaller antlers, and is looking slightly to the left. The text is overlaid on a green rectangular box in the lower-left corner.

Buck in front is 3-4 years old and buck in back is “old enough”

How Old Are These Bucks ???

How wide is the spread ??

This is an immature age buck with an outside antler beam spread just outside of the ears when ears are in the alert position.

How about this buck's spread ?

Wide Enough

Do you see the DOE
